Below from a 2012 email from Jane Richards (granddaughter of Rex Marquis, brother of my grandfather Francis Marion " Doc" Marquis.

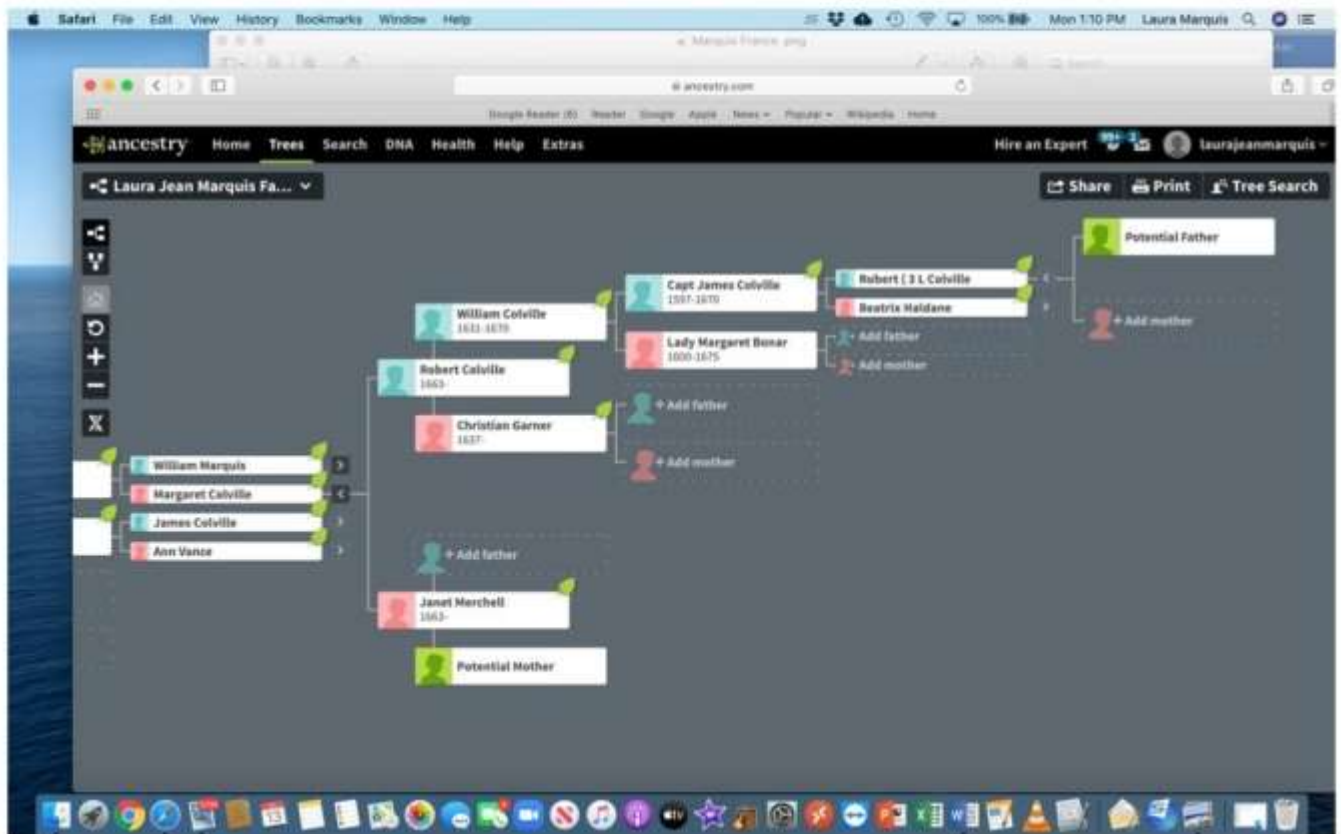

"Thank you so much for sending the ancestry data! I had traced them to Samuel and knew that they had immigrated from Antrim (which was occupied by Scots...ancient history...the Scotti tribe was another large Keltic tribe that migrated into Ireland...they were met by Kelts of other tribes, and eventually were 'given' Antrim and other N. Ireland counties to keep them more or less 'peaceful' and out of the hair of the older Irish tribes...origins of these Scotti is thought to have been ancient Thrace in the Med. via Iberia (N. Spain)...

They traveled between Pictland (what is now N.W. Scotland) and N. Ireland and were traders or merchants...some were engaged in being early pirates...this would have been long before Samuel...it's more or less ancient history...which was my major along with archaeology in college....."
