

Marquis Family of Dalmally and Glenorchy

My grandfather claimed that a branch of the family lived in the Dalmally and Glenorchy area and there were certainly MacMarquises living in the region from the end of the 17th century at least. I'd have thought it doubtful that a family memory would go back that far, so presumably the connection my grandfather alluded to would have been much later. The most notorious member of the Dalmally Marquises was, of course, Christian McMarcus, who was executed in a very gruesome manor in 1720, for adultery and poisoning her husband (See book). S M

Notes for JOHN MACVEAN:

John was a shepherd, and worked for some years near Crianlarich, Perthshire. On 2nd January 1913 he sailed from Liverpool to Buenos Aires, Argentina, the only passenger on the Nelson Line ship Highland Enterprise (3323 tons) and went to Patagonia, in the South of the Argentine, where he worked for a farmer who had once farmed Duiletter, the farm next to his home in Stronmilchan. Due to the vast area covered, shepherding was carried out on horseback, and because of wild animals a revolver and rifle were carried. While returning home to fight in the First World, John met Leon Henri Gaston "Gus" Polchet (q.v.), who after the war married John's sister, Euphemia. John and Gus both joined King Edwards Horse Regiment, and John died about 1925 as a result of being gassed towards the end of the war.

Occupation 4: Bet. 1914 - 1918, During WWI Phemie stayed with her sister, Christina, in Middlesbrough, and worked as a Ticket Collector at Middlesbrough Railway Station.

Notes for LEON HENRI GASTON "GUS" POLCHET:

Gus was born in 1885 at Keurfontein Farm, Paarl, about 40 miles North East of Cape Town. The farm's name means "Choice Spring", and Paarl gets its name from huge granite rocks which sparkle in the morning sun like pearls. He was about 8 years old when his father died, and he grew up in a house full of uncles, his mother having five brothers and one sister. The family joke was that at school he was asked if he knew what a Royal Marine was? His answer was no, but he knew what a dead marine was - an empty wine bottle. So much for growing up with a bunch of young uncles!

The Boer War was on when he was 15 - 16 years old, and he joined a small local cavalry unit with some of his uncles, glad, probably, to have finished with school. After discharge he farmed in the Paarl area , but apparently not very successfully, and in 1908 he was off to Australia and on to New Zealand, where he attended Agricultural College for about three years then worked as a horticulturist up to the beginning of 1914. At that stage he left New Zealand to take up a post as manager of a new fruit farming estate in the Argentine at San Raphael, Mendoza Province.

Having just got that started, World War I intervened, and he travelled to the U.K. , meeting John MacVean (q.v.), who had been shepherding in Patagonia, either just before embarkation or on board ship. They both joined the First King Edwards Horse Regiment and fought together in the trenches in France. When there was leave and an opportunity to be back in the UK, John introduced Gus to his sister, Phemie, who was staying with her sister, Christina, in Middlesbrough, and working as a ticket collector at the railway station.

After the war ended Gus went to Dalmally and worked as a gardener for a short time while sorting out his return to the Argentine. He married Phemie MacVean at Kilchurn View on the 30th of January 1919, and they sailed to Buenos Aires, leaving Dalmally on the early train on 15th July 1919, and sailing from Liverpool the next day on The Royal Mail Steam Packet Co ship SS Desna (7288 tons), calling at Lexoires and Lisbon in Portugal then across to Rio and Santos, reaching Buenos Aires after 28 days, continuing by train to San Raphael, where their son Jack was born on the 27th of September, 1920. About June 1921 Phemie and Jack returned to the UK on the SS Highland Laddie thence to Kilchurn View after the death of her sister Christina. About the same time the estate where Gus worked went bankrupt, and he joined them in Scotland, before they all went to South Africa, sailing from London on the Union-Castle Mail S.S. Co. Ltd. ship "Grantully Castle" (7612 tons) on the 26th October 1922. In South Africa he found work as manager of a farm in Somerset East. However, Phemie and Jack had to return to Kilchurn View in 1924 so that she could help look after her father who was very frail and was soon bed-ridden and died on 1st January 1928.

Gus stayed on at the farm in South Africa until 1928, when he managed to buy a small farm, Glenalpine, at Stellenbosch, about 40 miles East of Cape Town, where he was joined by Phemie and Jack in November 1928 and where they grew soft fruit (grapes, loganberries etc). It was a bad time to start a new venture as the world depression of 1929 - 30 was coming on and although he worked very hard it never really got going commercially, then in 1935 Phemie died, and in 1939 WW II broke out.

PRESS EXCERPTS

Glasgow Citizen ---- Scottish Concert in London.

"The Scottish Clans' Association of London held a most successful Burns Concert on Saturday evening, in the Royal Albert Hall, Kensington. The Society, of which the King and Queen are patrons, includes members from nearly every county in Scotland. Those present included H. R. H. The Princess Royal and Princess Maud of Fife. Gaelic and Scottish songs were given by Miss PHEMIE MARQUIS, who proved one of the most successful artistes. Her encore, "The Eriskay Love Lilt," was delightful."

Helensburgh News

"A sweet singer was Miss PHEMIE MARQUIS, and she was extremely happy in the singing of her numbers. In Sanderson's song "Break o' Day," Miss MARQUIS proved herself a soloist of no mean order, and this was amply borne out in her martial rendering of "The Cameron Men" (Gaelic), and she had to respond to the demands of the audience."

The Scotsman ---- Usher Hall, Edinburgh.

"Miss PHEMIE MARQUIS and Miss -----, who as first prize duettists won the commendations of Professor Granville Bantock, sang with fine harmony and expression."

Oban Times

"Never has Miss PHEMIE MARQUIS appeared to better advantage. With the true artiste's perception she rendered with appropriate skill the varying emotions of "An teid thu leam a'rightim og," "Mairi Bhoidheach," and "The Cameron Men" the latter a veritable outburst of musical feeling."

Sheffield Independent ---- Caledonian Society of Sheffield,

"Miss PHEMIE MARQUIS (Soprano) proved one of the most charming artistes that the Society has introduced to a Yorkshire audience. Her singing of "Wae's me for Prince Charlie" was notable for sweetness of voice and sympathetic expression. "The Flowers o' the Forest" (old setting) and "I lo'e no a laddie but ane" gave Miss MARQUIS an opportunity of displaying the qualities of a sweet voice of good range to advantage."

Airdrie Advertiser

"The musical programme was of a high order. Miss PHEMIE MARQUIS' solos, "The Lord is my Light" and "There is a green hill far away" were rendered in exquisite style, her beautiful voice being heard distinctly in all parts."

His Master's Voice -----Gramophone Co. ---- says :-

"Charming examples of the old traditional music are to be found in the records by Miss PHEMIE MARQUIS, especially "The Boatman" and the "Fairy's Love Song," which show the limpid purity and quality of tone. "

Rothesay Express

"A special artiste engaged for the occasion, Miss PHEMIE MARQUIS, the well known Gaelic and English vocalist. Her songs in the first part of the programme included four folk-songs from Mrs. Kennedy - Fraser's "Songs of the Hebrides." Miss MARQUIS has made a special study of these Hebridean songs and sings them with charm and native expression. The "Milking Song" and the "Barra Ballad" were heard for the first time in Rothesay. It was perfection in art and style."

She was born Abt. 1897, and died May 14, 1981 in Killin, Perthshire, Scotland.

Notes for ARCHIBALD MARQUIS:

A story about Archie :-

When Archie was a wee boy he was playing on the road outside the croft when the game-keeper came along and told him to go in and tell his mother the fish man was coming, and she would be wanting some herring. Wee Archie replied, "My Mummy will not be needing any herring today, Daddy brought in a herring this long last night" (indicating a "herring" over two feet long). The game-keeper went in to see Mrs Marquis, and after getting a cup of tea, took her aside and told her "Next time big Archie brings in a herring this long, don't let wee Archie see it!"

In those days poaching salmon was a serious offence and could even have resulted in them losing the croft.

118. CATHERINE MARQUIS⁶ HENDERSON (CHRISTINA MARQUIS⁵ MACVEAN, CATHERINE⁴ MARQUIS, ARCHIBALD³ MCVARQUIS, DUNCAN², FINLAY¹) was born October 7, 1914 in Middlesbrough, Yorkshire, England., and died June 7, 2000. She married SIDNEY DARBY December 1940.

Notes for CATHERINE MARQUIS HENDERSON:

During the Second World War Catherine was a Red Cross Nurse working in Middlesbrough looking after wounded servicemen. She also helped in a TOC-H canteen where she met Norah Adcock who she introduced to her brother Jim and the rest as they say is history!

She married Sidney Darby in December 1940 having been left on her own after the death of her father on 13th October 1940, her brother Jim having joined the RAF, sister Faye the WRAF and brother Andrew preparing to join the Merchant Navy.

Catherine was called up for war work and trained as an Electric Welder at Teesside Bridge and Engineering Works. When trained, she became a welder on Tank Landing Craft. She left when she was six months pregnant with her daughter, Carolyn. She never returned to paid employment being quite happy to look after her family.

Notes for SIDNEY DARBY:

Sid was called up in 1940 and was a Lance Bombadier in the Royal Artillery - 146 AAZ Battery. Although he never went abroad during his service, he served in Northern Ireland, Truro and Plymouth.

After the war Sid returned to his job as an order clerk with J and JR Ritchie-Rolling Mills. He worked in the steelworks all his life, becoming a Senior Manager at Richard Hills Ltd before he retired.

119. JAMES JAMIESON⁶ HENDERSON (CHRISTINA MARQUIS⁵ MACVEAN, CATHERINE⁴ MARQUIS, ARCHIBALD³ MCVARQUIS, DUNCAN², FINLAY¹) was born January 30, 1916 in Middlesbrough, Yorkshire, England., and died June 15, 1976 in York, England. He married NORA LESTER ADCOCK March 27, 1947 in St. Mary's Church, Acklam, Middlesbrough, England., daughter of FRANK ADCOCK and ISABELLA CORMACK. She was born November 25, 1919 in Clarence Drive, Hyndland, Glasgow, Scotland., and died March 15, 2000 in Cairndhu Nursing Home, Helensburgh, Scotland.

Notes for JAMES JAMIESON HENDERSON:

When Jim left school in Middlesbrough, he went to stay with his cousin, Iain MacVean, at Kilchurn View, Dalmally, where he helped on the croft, and also worked for a time with Melville, Dundas and Whitson as an engine driver on the narrow gauge railway hauling material from the Cruachan Quarries spoil tip to the approach road to the new bridge over the River Orchy.

He enlisted in the Royal Air Force on 23rd November 1936, at RAF Uxbridge, rank Aircraftsman 2 (AC2), was transferred to RAF Henlow, No. 3 School of Technical Training on 19th January 1937 to train as an engine fitter and was promoted to AC1 on 23rd December 1937. He was transferred to RAF Khormaksar, Aden, No. 8(B) Squadron on 25th October 1938 - there is no record of the date of his return to Britain. He was promoted to Leading Aircraftsman (LAC) on 3rd September 1939, and Corporal on 8 August 1940, continuing as an engine fitter (Pegasus, Mercury VIII, Cheeta IX, Mercury XX and Cyclone) until late 1942, and promoted to Sergeant on 1st October 1942.

Little is on record of Jim's service during World War II, although it is known that he served in the Middle East and North Africa. He embarked for Africa on 3rd May 1944 and disembarked on 9th June, arriving on 15th June at Hillside Camp, Southern Rhodesia, where he received his Flying Training.

On 3rd August 1945 he was discharged as an airman on appointment to a Temporary Commission (Extended Short Service Commission to 14 October 1947) in the rank of Pilot Officer in the General Duties (Pilot) Branch. On the same date it is recorded that he was awarded the Flying Badge as a pilot.

On 4th August 1946 Jim was promoted to Flying Officer. Sometime at this point he was told that the RAF was reducing in size and that he would be unable to continue in the RAF as a pilot. He elected to retrain in the Air Traffic Control Branch and completed his Air Traffic Control (ATC) training in late 1947, transferring from the General Duties (Pilot) Branch to the General Duties (Ground) ATC Branch on 14 October 1947. He was promoted to Flight Lieutenant on 4th February 1950 and awarded a Permanent Commission on 24th November 1950.

120. JOHN "IAIN"⁶ MACVEAN (*CATHERINE "KATE"*⁵, *CATHERINE*⁴ MARQUIS, *ARCHIBALD*³ MCVARQUIS, *DUNCAN*², *FINLAY*¹) was born September 25, 1907 in Kilchurn View, Stronmilchan, Dalmally, Argyll, Scotland., and died March 7, 1996 in Kilchurn View, Stronmilchan, Dalmally, Argyll, Scotland. He married MARY BURNETT SCOTT June 15, 1938 in Burton-on-Trent, Staffordshire, England., daughter of WILLIAM SCOTT and MARGARET CUNNISON. She was born September 30, 1906 in Edenhall, Cumberland, England., and died October 5, 2000 in Lorn and Islands District General Hospital, Oban, Argyll, Scotland.

Notes for JOHN "IAIN" MACVEAN:

Iain was brought up by his grand-parents. He attended Dalmally Public School from June 16, 1913 to July 30, 1921, getting a Bursary to Oban High School, which he attended for about two years. He was cabin boy on the steamer "Countess of Breadalbane" on Loch Awe for one summer during this period. On leaving school he assisted his Grand-father on the croft, taking over when he died in 1928, and getting the tenancy when his Grand-mother died in 1933. Iain bought the croft from Captain Oldham for £400 in 1951.

He had a Dairy Herd, supplying Dalmally and Lochawe with milk until the late 1930s, and continuing to supply Lochawe until the mid-1950s, using a 1000cc motor bike and sidecar until the late 1940s, when he got a van. After this he started a Beef Herd, rearing calves, which were sold for fattening at the local Auction Mart. In the 1950s he also fattened pigs, buying weaners at Oban Auction Mart, and sending them to the bacon factory in Stirling. He also kept about 400 laying hens in deep litter, selling most of the eggs to local retailers, any excess going to Government run egg packing stations.

In 1966 Iain bought 5 pedigree Welsh Black cows, and had considerable success selling their progeny, both pure and cross bred, at the local sales. A cross Charollais got a price of £900, a record for a bullock at Dalmally, in October, 1983.

Iain gradually reduced his herd from the late 1970s, parting with the last of them, Welsh Blacks, in the early 1990s.

During the war Iain was in the Home Guard but was excused Sunday training when the Officer in Charge, who lived in Lochawe, realised training would interfere with milk deliveries! After the war he was on the committee of the Dalmally Show for many years. (He was "on the gate" at the first show in c.1922). He was also on the National Farmers Union for Scotland committee during the 1960s and 1970s.

Iain was a good shot with both rifle and shotgun, and many good meals of venison and game were enjoyed.

After being a navigator in the South African Air Force, Jack went back to University and completed studies for a B.Sc. degree in Chemistry. He then worked for a few years in the laboratory of a factory near Cape Town making Vitamin A from fish liver-oil and oils for paints from fish-body oils. When the "Oil from Coal" industry started in 1955, Jack and Family moved to a new township, Sasolburg, which had been built to accommodate the people working at the Sasol factory which produced petrol, diesel and all sorts of by-products from low grade coal. Sasolburg is about 50 miles south of Johannesburg, altitude about 5000 feet above sea level, cold (few degrees of frost) but dry in winter, hot (25 - 35 degrees C) in summer, with rain mostly as thunderstorms. Jack stayed with Sasol for 25 years working in their laboratories, first in the process control division and eventually in charge of one of the research divisions. In September 1980 when he retired on pension, Jack and Rene moved to George on the South Coast about 300 miles from Cape Town.
